Rev. John C. Carpenter, formerly a citizen of this place, and now a pastor in New Orleans, has recently been complimented in the following letter, signed by about one hundred and fifty of the most influential citizens of New Orleans:

Rev. J. C. Carpenter, 740 Magazine street : Rev. Sir :- We, the undersigned citizens of New Orleans, having observed for several years past your arduous and benevolent labor as a good Samaritan in this community, and admiring your pions disregard of party, sect or creed in the discharge of your charitable ministrations, and well knowing that your material contributions have been far beyond the ordinary bounds, desire to give for your benefit a public concert on such evening as you may be pleased to designate.

To which he replies: Gentlemen-Your letter of this date, tendering to me a Concert, was received this evening. This expression of your regard, prompted by your own kind feelings, and so wholly unexpected by me. could not take me otherwise than by surprise.

I am proud of the approbation of my fellow citizens, but I have no words to express the emotions this action awakens in my heart, more than simply to say, it is fully appreciated by me. .

Your reference to my past public labors recalls many deeply painful, as well as pleasing reminiscences. In all of them I was actuated from a sense of duty, the performance
